Those looking at the tags before they read this may think I'm insane for putting those first two names in the same post, but I can assure you that I am not.

First, check out our new ad (left side) from BarackObama.com, which takes you to Obama's Senate webpage and a discussion of FERA '06.

Second, Andrew Sullivan finally saw An Inconvenient Truth. His reaction? He recommends it and re-joins the cacophony calling for a large increase in the gas tax, as well as greater R&D&I.

(Of course, Sully also gets in the relatively long line of people taking shots at Al Gore and his attempt to pull a "political Madonna," which also seems to be prevalent in the 'sphere as well. C'mon folks, he invented teh internets!)
