Thanks to commenter Dave, for telling us about this interesting Denver Post column about what it might look like when "the rest" of America realizes how petroleum-dependent we really are. (If you can't read the link for whatever reason, Dave was nice enough to reprint the column in a previous post's comments. But please come back here to post new comments!)

I only hope that the future looks this civilized and cooperative.
